this book discusses a rich variety of voices from the margins and experiences of living in the postmillennial globalised world represented in selected novels by irish canadian british american serbian australian iraqi and māori authors contributions focus on illustrative examples of the contemporary novel that reflects acute awareness of globalizing processes and the rising tension between global and local identities discourses and trends in its diversity the book serves to map voices from the new margins overshadowed by the intense pressure of globalization whether these new margins are ethnic minorities living in globalized centres of contemporary metropolises or authors whose national local or regional voices are marginalized by works with more global ones they are equally deserving of the attention of general readers university students and literary scholars the book will primarily appeal to scholars in the fields of literary gender postcolonial and food studies but will also be of interest to a broader readership involved in explorations of literary works in the context of globalizing processes from the award winning author of The Danish Girl and The Rose City Pasadena tells the story of Linda Stamp a fishergirl born in 1903 on a coastal onion farm and the three men who change her life her jealous brother Edmund Bruder the orphan Linda's father brings home from World War I and a Pasadena orange rancher named Willis Poore the novel spans Linda's adventurous and romantic life weaving the tales of her Mexican mother and her German born father with those of the rural Pacific coast of her youth and of the small affluent city Pasadena that becomes her home Pasadena is a novel of passion and history about a woman and a place in perpetual transformation
